RED CROSS DRIVE TO OPEN NEXT MONDAY

COMMITTEE MEETING HELD MONDAY NIGHT.

WILL ASK FOR ONLY $2,500

Trustee Vavra, Chairman; J. K. McDonald, Secretary; A. M. O'Brien, F. H. McElfresh, Jos. Parsons, Captains.

The citizens of this district will be asked to donate the sum of $2,500 for the American Red Cross' second war loan, next week.

There was a meeting in the library building Monday evening for the purpose of organizing for the drive. Trustee Joseph Vavra presided, and J. K. McDonald was elected secretary and Judge Copeland treasurer.

Mr. Vavra stated that the quota for this district was $2,000, and that the district was smaller than it was last year, as an auxiliary had been organized at Wintersburg.

There was some surprise expressed that the allotment this time should be larger than last, as the district was smaller and the total asked for by the government the same.

The only explanation appears to be that the quota last June was $1,500 and the amount subscribed totalled $5,237.11, therefore the county committee decided that the quota should be raised.

After some discussion over organization, Will Tarbox moved that the same captains that had charge of the districts last time be appointed again, which prevailed after being seconded by Wm. C. O'Connor. Consequently, F. H. McElfresh will have charge of the city of Huntington Beach and the small strip of territory south of the Talbert boulevard and north and west of the city limits; A. M. O'Brien the factory district, and Joseph G. Parsons the Talbert district.

Harold H. Campbell, principal of the Grammar school, asked if it would be wise to make an effort to raise three or four times the amount of the quota, as there would probably be other campaigns to follow.

H. T. Dunning agreed with what Mr. Campbell said, and thought that it was unwise to make an attempt to raise a very much larger amount than that asked for.

A. W. Griffith was of the same opinion, and suggested that the amount be fixed at a sum that, after making allowances for defaulted payments, would insure the quota; and a motion passed unanimously that the amount be fixed at $2,500.

At the suggestion of H. T. Dunning, the captains, secretary and chairman will go over the list of those contributing to the last fund, now on file in Mr. McDonald's office, and determine the amount required from each of the donors to raise the amount determined upon.

This is considered a fortunate solution of the question, as no one will be asked for an unreasonable amount, and all may feel that the amount required from them is necessary, and will no doubt be subscribed quickly and willingly.

Those present included Mrs. H. L. Heffner and Mrs. Alex. P. Nelson, president and secretary of the Red Cross auxiliary; Judge Copeland, A. M. O'Brien, T. B. Talbert, R. L. Obarr, President of the Board of Trustees E. E. French, Will Tarbox, Wm. C. O'Connor, R. C. Turner, Trustee Vavra, H. T. Dunning, J. K. McDonald, Harold H. Campbell, A. W. Griffith, Trustee R. H. Chapin and Jas. J. Conrad.

HENS HATCHED JANUARY FIRST NOW LAYING EGGS.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Taylor have five Barred Plymouth Rock hens that began pecking open the shells in which they were enclosed, January 1, and finished up the job the following day. Tuesday one of these young hens laid an egg, and Wednesday another one performed in a similar manner.

If this is not a record for pullets, it is close to it, as it has seldom occurred that hens lay under five months of age, and these hens were but 4½ months old. There is no guessing about these hens laying, as they are kept in a separate pen from other fowls.

PRIZES AWARDED IN THE ESSAY CONTEST.

GLENNA WRIGHT AND LUCILE SUDOW WINNERS.

Some time ago the First National Bank offered seven cash prizes for the best essays on "Thrift," to be written by pupils of the Huntington Beach Union High school and the various Grammar schools in this section of the county.

There were two prizes offered for the High school—five dollars for the first and three for the second.

Fifteen dollars was the total for the Grammar grades, divided as follows: First, $5; second, $4; third, $3; fourth, $2; fifth, $1.

The first prize offered to High school students was captured by Miss Glenna Wright of Westminster, and the second by Miss Fern Bradbury of Wintersburg.

The Grammar school prizes were won by Lucile Sudow of the Westminster school, first; George Bundschuh of Huntington Beach school, second; William Kerr, Westminster, third; Dorris Fowler, Huntington Beach, fourth; Carmack Baker, Huntington Beach, fifth.

The essays were judged by County Superintendent R. P. Mitchell.

The bank officials are to be congratulated upon their enterprise in offering these prizes, and the students are to be highly complimented upon their good work on the important question of "Thrift."

The prize essays follow:

HIGH SCHOOL.

Glenna Wright.

Over a year has elapsed since the United States declared war on the Imperial German government. Already we have realized the value of thrift and economy. We had been called a nation of spenders and the most extravagant people in the world. We were not a thrifty people; but our entrance into this war has forced us to become a nation of savers. Let us look at the new America of the future, emerged from the war, the habit of thrift rooted deeply into the hearts of her people. Her future is amazing in its possibilities. By the thriftiness of her people and the conservation of her untold wealth, she will become the dominating financial power of the world. Our great nation has been peacefully sleeping, but has at last roused itself as if from a dream. A wonderful feat has been accomplished, for in little more than a year the carefree and thriftless people have been converted into a nation of thrifty people. They have stood back of their government in every possible way, and have oversubscribed about three billion dollars in two Liberty Drives. And, as horrible as the war may be, America has learned the art of thriftiness and has become a nation of savers instead of spenders.

But the value of thrift is twofold. Thrift will not only finance and win this war, but it is creating character among all the people of this vast land. Old and young are realizing more and more the responsibilities placed upon them.

"Thrift is one of the cornerstones on which manhood must be constructed," says Henry Ford, a thrifty American. And from the lives of other great Americans—Edison, Wanamaker, Schab and Hill—we find this statement by Ford to be indeed true.

Some time ago an insurance company published a chart showing that at sixty years of age ninety-five per cent of men are either dependent on their daily labor or their children for support. What is the matter? By the practice of thrift it will not be necessary for so many men to be dependent on others if the youth of today is taught the value of thrift. If the habit of thrift is instilled into the minds of our young people, a foundation will be layed for a useful, successful and happy life. And such is being rooted deeply into the minds of young America today. By systematic savings they are buying War Savings Stamps and Thrift Stamps, thus helping to win the war and laying a strong foundation for their future lives. Europe, at the close of this war, will be bankrupt, and we will receive no financial aid from her for years to come. We must be ready to depend on ourselves when the opportunity comes. And to be a success this development work must be in the hands of thrifty and prosperous people.

When Prussian autocracy lies dead and peace again reigns, the Stars and Stripes will wave over a new America—a land where thrift and prosperity has conquered over extravagance and wanton waste. And the Statue of Lib-

WILL BE NEXT COMMUNITY EVENT.

TWO GOOD SPEAKERS TO TALK

Committee Meeting Friday Afternoon; T. B. Talbert Will Be Marshal of the Day; Service Flag Raising.

If present plans materialize, there will be a good program given in Huntington Beach Memorial Day, Thursday, May 30.

There was a meeting of the committees representing the various organizations, Friday afternoon of last week, in the directors' room of the First National Bank. Henry Ashmun of the G.A.R. was elected chairman of the meeting.

Harold H. Campbell, supervising principal of the Grammar school, said the children of the school would form in line at the Central building at 9 a. m., as in the past, and march down Palm avenue to Main and on Main to the pier.

Mrs. Mary McCain stated that members of the Woman's Relief Corps would probably join the school children at Main and Palm, and distribute flags and assist the teachers.

The Old Veterans will join the line later, followed by the Red Cross, Spanish War veterans, and soldiers and sailors in uniform, if any are in the city at that time. The Huntington Beach municipal band will also be in line.

The question of marshal of the day was discussed, and resulted in the unanimous choice of T. B. Talbert, and the way in which the procession will be lined up will be a matter to be decided by the marshal.

The march will end at the outer tee of the pier, and flowers will be cast upon the waters. There will be a flag drill by 20 boys and 20 girls from the Grammar school, in the street.

J. K. McDonald was designated as the one to arrange for machines for transporting those who desire to go to the cemetery for the purpose of decorating the graves of veterans.

There will be a picnic dinner in the pavilion on the beach, which is expected to be covered by that time. The Chamber of Commerce will provide coffee, sugar and milk for the occasion.

R. L. Bisby of Santa Ana will be one of the speakers, and there will also be one from Los Angeles—Milton Bryan, Assistant United States District Attorney for Southern California.

J. N. Hearn, A. J. Young and Mr. Ashmun represented the G.A.R.; Mrs. McCain, Mrs. M. A. Penny and Mrs. Ruth A. Williams the W.R.C., and Judge Copeland the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. O'Connor and Mr. French were out of the city, and R. C. Turner, the other Chamber of Commerce representative, was too busy to attend.

THERE WILL BE A BAND CONCERT SUNDAY.

WILL BEGIN AT HALF PAST THREE.

There will be a band concert next Sunday afternoon on the beach, beginning at 3:30. The band boys are looking for a room to practice in, as the room on Ocean avenue that has been used for several months has been rented to Oliver Nelson, who will soon open up a restaurant.

SALARIES OF TEACHERS.

Last week the statement was made that teachers in the Grammar school received salaries varying from $37.50 to $63.75 per month, and exception has been taken to the statement; and to make it, perhaps, more specific, it might be added that they receive yearly salaries equivalent to that sum per month for a calendar year.

It makes no difference whether the yearly wage is paid in nine or twelve installments, it represents the earning capacity of the educator for the year.

MAY FESTIVAL IN PARK NEXT FRIDAY.

The annual May Festival, given by pupils of the Grammar school, will be in Circle park next Friday afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock.

STUDENTS' EFFORTS WERE APPRECIATED.

CONSIDERABLE GOOD TALENT

Lecture Course the Best Ever Given By School; All Numbers Have Been of High Order.

The final number of the High school lecture course was given in the Grammar school auditorium Friday evening, and was one of the big successes of the season, both in the number attending and the high order of the program offered.

The entertainment was known as the Home Talent number, and again demonstrated that there is some good talent in the Huntington Beach Union High school. The audience was a responsive one, and appreciated each of the twelve numbers on the program.

The feature number of the evening was the vocal solo by Miss Marie Frenger of Wintersburg, and a violin obligato by Mrs. Clinton C. Newland, with Miss Frances Douthit as accompanist. Miss Frenger delivered "Elegie," by Jules Massonet, in a highly entertaining manner. Mrs. Newland probably appeared to better advantage than ever before, her work being more along the lines of a finished artist.

From a musical standpoint, the work of Miss Douthit as an accompanist was one of the pleasures of the entertainment, and the News reiterates a former statement that the High school is fortunate in being able to retain Miss Douthit as musical director.

One of the great surprises of the evening was the manner in which Teddy Tarbox acquitted himself in delivering "Meaning of America's Entrance Into the War," David Lloyd George. When he stepped from behind the curtain he was no longer Teddy Tarbox, the school boy, but Sir Theodore Tarbor, a man of military bearing, and the voice of one of mature years and experience. He spoke with pleasant deliberation and a voice of quality that carries with it deep conviction.

Miss Eunice Stockton of Wintersburg made her initial bow to a Huntington Beach audience, being on the program for a piano solo, "Grande Marche de Concert," Wollenhaupt, and she left a very favorable impression, as her work at the piano indicated considerable musical talent. Miss Stockton responded to an encore.

The next number was a song, "Welcome, Pretty Primrose," Pinsuti, by the Girls' Glee Club of the school, and was well rendered and freely encored. Miss Gladyse Bollon presided at the piano.

Miss Grace Foley rendered a reading, "A Soldier of the Empire," Thomas Bailey Aldrich, in her usual interesting manner.

Vocal solo, "An Open Secret," R. Huntington Woodman, by Miss Irene Engle, was highly appreciated, and she was encored.

"Mammy's Little Coal Black Coon," J. A. Parks, by the Boys' Quintet—Leo Lavering, Jack Given, John Murdy and Russell Alford of the Wintersburg-westminster district and Bert Jumper of Newport Beach—proved to be one of the biggest hits of the show, and the boys wore all the grass off the encore path before the audience would let go of them.

A splendid number was the "Knitting Song," Anna P. Riser, sung by Miss Frenger, Miss Maybelle Elfeld, Miss Bollon, Miss Engle, Miss Eva Murdy and Miss Ethel Graham.

Jack Given followed with a piano solo, "Captivation Waltz," Benson, which showed that he can put considerable spirit in his musical work. He was encored.

One of the most charming numbers was the Scotch folk dance in costume by Miss Elise Armitage, Miss Bollon, Miss Engle, Miss Viola Walton, Miss Josephine Winters, Miss Eva Murdy, Miss Ina Clemmens, Miss Loretta Armitage, Miss Agnes Gisler, Miss Sylvia Ames, Miss Idonnah Conville, Miss Dorothy Morris. Miss Hazelle Horn accompanied.

The amusing feature of the program was "Mrs. Oakley's Telephone," a playlet, in which Miss Bollon as Mrs. Oakley, a bride; Miss Ames as Constance, her friend; Miss Foley as Norma, the maid, appeared. These young women all carried their roles with credit, but the bouquet must be handed to Miss Foley, as her interpretation of an Irish cook indicated special talent for character work. Miss Horn as a Swedish maid, a difficult role, is also entitled to considerable credit. Miss Bollon and Miss Ames were each successful in their part of the telephone mixup.

The remaining number was a violin solo by Miss Loretta Armitage, accompanied by Miss Walton.

The entertainment was opened by the High school orchestra playing American National Melodies. The members were Miss Loretta Armitage and Cecil McCoy, violins; Wesley Cole, cornet; Leo Lavering, drum, and Miss Walton, piano.

The Home Talent number was a great success, and reflects credit upon those having charge of it.

HOW TO KEEP THE ALLEYS PRESENTABLE.

MR. AND MRS. CARL OLSON HAVE GOOD EXAMPLE.

Those who desire to know how to keep the alley entrance to your home as clean and attractive as the street entrance should visit the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Olson at 324 Seventh street.

There is no rubbish, trash or tin cans in the alley in the rear of this home. On the contrary, there are just as many flowers in the alley as elsewhere around the home. There is a small piece of ground outside the fence and this is in grass. There is a great profusion of geraniums and other flowers and vines along the fence and garage and other outhouse.

The proverbial garbage can rests upon a stand neatly covered with oilcloth, with a box below for tin cans and other rubbish that cannot be placed in the garbage can. The appearance of the alley in the rear of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Olson affords a refreshing contrast to that of the average alley scene.

FACTORY EMPLOYEES WILL PICNIC SATURDAY.

CELEBRATION WILL BE IN COUNTY PARK.

There will be a picnic in Orange County Park, Saturday, of the employees of the Holly Sugar Corporation, Santa Ana Sugar Company, and Southern California Sugar Company.

THIRD DEGREE IN MASONRY WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

There was an interesting session of Huntington Beach Lodge No. 380, F. & A. M., Wednesday night, which terminated around about the hour of low twelve.

Raxley Leonard Obarr of Obarr's Drug Store was raised to the sublime degree of a Master Mason, and a complimentary banquet followed in the dining hall of the lodge room.

Those assisting in the work were: Richard Drew, W. M.; A. W. Griffith, S. W.; E. E. French, J. W.; Joseph Vavra, S. D.; Eugene Davis, J. D.; Geo. A. Corbett, S. S.; J. A. Flaws, J. S.; J. O. Pyle, Dr. G. A. Shank, J. A. McCoy, C. E. Lavering, S. L. Blodget.

Franklyn E. Skinner presided at the piano.

The refreshments were served by Mrs. Vavra, Mrs. Pyle and Mrs. R. H. Chapin.

BOAT LANDING FOR PIER MAY COST MORE.

The estimate of $1,500 for a boat landing for the pier does not include wood piles that should be driven at the end to insure a permanent landing.

City Engineer Spencer states that such a landing would probably cost $4,000. The cheaper one, he says, might answer the purpose for a while, but would probably be washed out when the first storm occurred; therefore he doubts the advisability of the cheaper construction.

P. T. A. MEETING NEXT TUESDAY EVENING.

There will be a business meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association in the Grammar school building next

After supper Judge Thomas of Santa Ana gave a splendid patriotic address, to which the audience listened for an hour. People were present from Garden Grove, Santa Ana, Wintersburg and Smeltzer. BIGGEST AND BEST NEWSPAPERS.

APPRECIATES THE NEWSPAPERS.

Santa Ana, Calif., May 9, 1918.

Huntington Beach News,
Huntington Beach, Calif.

Gentlemen:

Publicity is the silent salesman. The newspapers enter the home and impress upon the consciousness of the reader the policy of the paper. In the Third Liberty Loan the papers of Orange County have impressed upon the citizens of this county the value of loyalty to such an extent that the Third Liberty Loan in this county was oversubscribed to the amount of $541,400.

A great deal of this work, upon the part of the papers, was a labor of love, or really an expression of the individual ideas of loyalty of their respective owners, and it was this expression that brought results.

It is useless for any man or set of men to try to express to another man or set of men, his appreciation for their co-operation, so I find that the hardest thing I have to do is to tell the people what I really think of their splendid co-operation during this last campaign, yet I feel that it is my duty to attempt it; so you will please accept this letter as an attempt on my part to express to the newspaper men of Orange County my appreciation for the most excellent manner in which they have handled the publicity for this campaign.

You have moulded the opinion of the people along the line of expressing their loyalty by subscribing to these bonds, and in most cases the matter of selling them was easy.

Once again expressing to you my appreciation and hoping that we may all know one another better as time goes on, I am

Yours for no peace without victory,
R. L. BISBY,
Chairman Orange County Liberty Loan Committee.

DOMESTICS

NEXT WEEK—May 20-25, we are going to make a special drive on Domestics, including Muslins, Sheets, Sheeting, Pillow Cases, Pillow Tubing, Comforts, Blankets, etc. The prices will be exceedingly low, and you can take advantage of the opportunity to get these things just when you will need them. We shall reserve the right to limit the quantity sold to anyone, because we want as many as possible to share in these savings. Here are some of the prices. Compare them with city prices and then come and fill your needs quickly.

Hope Muslin	27c	Pequot Pillow Tubing, 42 in.	49c
Berkley Cambric No. 60	29c	Lewiston Pillow Tubing, 42 in.	35c
First Choice Cambric	27c	Salisbury Pillow Tubing, 40 in.	43c
Toxaway Unbleached Muslin	15c	Indian Head, 36 in.	37c
Pequot Sheets, 72x90	$1.79	Middlesex Pillow Slips, 42x36	2 for 35c
Pequot Sheeting, 8-4	73c	Comforts, full size	$2.98, $3.49, $4.49
White Star, 9-4	69c	Blankets, 39x60	$1.20
Champion Sheets, 81x90	$1.49	Woolnap Blankets, 72x90	$3.69
White Star Sheets, 63x90	$1.29	All Wool Blankets, $10 value	$8.87
Silver A Sheets, 72x90	$1.49

The above quotations represent extraordinary values, and you should take advantage of them without delay, for they are much under present value and prices on Domestics are jumping almost daily. Early and fortunate buying on our part made these prices possible. We have many good values in our other departments which you should not miss. Our Devonshires are 40c, as compared with 45c and 50c elsewhere, and we have many especially good buys in Gingham just now. We also make a specialty of Tennis Shoes, and can fit you at the lowest prices.

STUDENT BODY NOTES.

Friday evening, May 10, marked the event of the Home Talent, which proved a great success. The opening chorus of the "Star Spangled Banner" brought the enthusiastic crowd to its feet. There was not a lax moment from that time until the curtain fell on Mrs. Oakley, Constance, Emma and Mary, the cook.

On Wednesday, May 15, was held the regular meeting of the Advisory Board, at which time the matter of the yearly election was considered. It was decided to hold same election after the manner of the primary, nominees being eligible when petitioned for by twenty voters of the Student Body. No voter or student may hold office unless he be duly registered by the prescribed time and with clear record as to dues. Any person failing to swear truthfully as to the questions on the affidavit of registration shall not be allowed to visit the polls on either May 22, at which time the president and book store manager shall be elected, or May 26, when the other officers shall be elected. Campaign speeches will be launched as eagerly as for any political election.

Thursday was the day for the regular Student Body meeting, and here the final action was passed on the plans for election. Other matters of school interest were discussed for some length of time, after which Royal Jumper, debating manager, presided over the remainder of the meeting. The Forensic contestants delighted the students with their contest selections, which were very well given; and with such splendid work in evidence, we are sure of only the best results in our part of the Forensic, which takes place Saturday morning, May 18, in Santa Ana. Due to the Red Cross parade to be held in the afternoon, the entire contest will be held in the morning. The Freshman and Sophomore entrants will contest in the First Baptist church, while the Juniors and Seniors will meet in the Intermediate auditorium. A yell leader and song leader will accompany each crowd.

The Girl Cadets are doing splendid work, and quite probably will appear with the Boy Cadets on Memorial Day. On Monday, May 13, Mr. Spencer reviewed the troops (girls), and the following officers were commissioned: Gladyse Bollon, captain; Emma Warner, first lieutenant; Grace Foley, second lieutenant, and Fae Harris, first sergeant. GRACE FOLEY, Press Reporter.

BLACKSMITH SHOP IS OPEN FOR BUSINESS.

THE RED CROSS DRIVE MAY 20-27.

Our boys are in France. Are we going to contribute to their relief in the true American spirit? The question needs no answer. No American ever halts in giving for the relief of his boys or the success of his country.

We are in a war to win, and should we fail to come through on every call and get beaten—

McELFRESH

To Our Customers

As a war measure, and in line with suggestions of the National Council of Defense, we find that we must eliminate all unnecessary calls and deliveries.

The laundry confronts the problem of continued efficient service in the face of greatly increased costs of production in all departments. One of the main cost items is that of delivery, and when to this is added repeated calls by the driver for bundles not ready the first time, and to collect small amounts from customers who did not pay for their work when delivered, a hardship is placed upon the laundry as well as upon the driver, who must give the time for such extra calls.

In view of these facts we must earnestly request our customers to co-operate with us; TO HAVE THEIR BUNDLES READY UPON THE REGULAR PICK-UP DAY AND TO PAY CASH FOR ALL WORK UPON DELIVERY.

This request is in no way a reflection upon the integrity or the financial standing of any customer; it is issued solely as a stimulus to the egorts of a few who have been thoughtlessly negligent in preparing their bundles and making their payments.

Very truly yours,

The American Laundry

erty will stand thru the ages as a symbol of justice, liberty and prosperity to all who enter her vast and wonderful land.

Fern Bradbury.

As we look back over the history of the United States and recall the panics and hard times that have occurred, we find that they were nearly all due to the lack of frugality.

Take, for instance, the panic of 1837. Everyone had been spending money without any regard for saving. States had spent money carelessly, incurring large debts. Then suddenly the crisis came. Prices rose suddenly. Factories were closed down and men lost their jobs. And a siege of hard times was endured. And why did all this happen? These panics are characterized by the lack of economy and good management.

Save your money. Do not spend it foolishly. It will come in handy some day. Think of when you are older and not able to work. You do not want to be dependent upon some one else. Be dependent upon yourself. It isn't necessary to skimp all the time, but be saving and not wasteful. "Waste not, want not" is a good slogan to follow.

After you have saved your money, invest it. One of the best investments is in Liberty Bonds. These are not only good investments for yourself but also a great help to the government. You get good interest and with this interest you can buy thrift stamps. Loan money to your country to back up your government in this great world war for democracy.

All the needy nations are depending upon thrift to back them up. Your boys gave their all to go "over there" and fight to save the old red, white, and blue from being trampled on. When they come home will you be able to face them and tell them that you did your utmost to aid them in the fight; that you were so economical in the management of your affairs that you were able to back them up by buying several liberty bonds? If you haven't been thrifty, now is the time to start.

You can be thrifty in other ways than by saving money. Time saving is a great thing to be emphasized. In this day and age everyone is hurrying on to gain something better. Are you one of them or do you stand around waiting for that something better to come to you?

In your own home you should practice economy. Do not waste food. Think of the millions "over there" that are starving. Put yourself in their place. What would you think of a great nation like ours wasting so much when you were starving?

Thrift is the one thing that will bring you success and prosperity.

Thrift means economy. The habit of saving arises in the desire to improve our condition and the condition of those who depend upon us. Its object is to manage frugally the resources of the family, to prevent waste, and avoid useless expenditure. Thrift is under the influence of reason and forethought, and never works by chance or by fits.

One cannot get wealthy by being shiftless, but must work and save what he earns, and not spend it all through extravagance. Saving money does not mean hoarding it. It is really wasteful because the money might be spent in such a way as to produce more wealth.

Many are carried away by the habit of bargain buying, getting things that are absolutely useless just because they are at a low price. For instance buying antique furniture and china. Some women buy enough china to furnish a china store.

One must not live for the present alone, but must think of the future. Industry may help the poorest person reach honor and distinction.

Savings are the result of labor—it means self-denial for future good.

Any one hoarding food is working against the common good of the country.

Never in the history of the world has there been a time when thrift is more recognized than at the present crisis. This is, of course, on account of the great war, now raging throughout the world.

Thousands of soldiers have to be clothed and fed. Munitions and guns have to be bought. In order to raise some money for these things, the government is issuing Liberty bonds and Thrift Saving stamps. The government certificate is only four dollars and at the end of five years the government pays back five dollars at compound interest to the lender. This is a very good investment, especially for people who can't afford to spend much money.

There are many ways a person can save in the matter of dress. Why buy new clothes when last year's will do as well? Why get fancy shoes that are very expensive? Why buy unnecessary articles?

One of the greatest wastes is in food. Scraps are thrown away that a skillful housekeeper would use. Many a good dish is spoiled in the cooking, and a simple dish should be fixed appetizingly.

The war has now been going on almost four years and food is getting scarce, so everyone is being forced to save. There are many good ways of investing the money that we might save. Thrift Stamps provide the best and easiest way of establishing a savings account that has ever been offered to the people of this country.

The American soldiers in France are suffering great privations and hardships, so we should all be willing to do our share, if we cannot go to the front.

Food and money will win the war, so it is our supreme duty and opportunity to save, and to do it NOW.

George Bundschuh.
2nd Prize.

People sometimes think that rich people are lazy and never work because they ride in automobiles and live in fine houses. But they are nearly always wrong, for most people who are rich were once poor and had to start out with almost nothing, and worked and earned their money and gradually got rich because they were thrifty and saved their money, and could live in ease when old age came.

Lots of people begin poor and die poor because they never learned to be thrifty and never saved their money. Some people begin rich and die poor because they spent their money. Thrift is the basis of everything. The people of the United States are now awakening to thrift since we joined the war. The housewifes are learning thrift in the matter of food by saving it and other things that can be saved. They see posters and signs by the government urging them to save food because it will win the war. They want to do their bit by saving food.

Another great help to the country is the Junior Red Cross and the Red Cross. They knit for the soldiers and sailors and make clothes for the Belgians. The school children throughout the United States are learning thrift by bringing salvage for the Junior Red Cross. Most children are knitting too. It is necessary to be thrifty in these days. We do not know what is ahead of us. If we begin thrifty we will grow up thrifty. This war will help the American people to learn thrift.

William Kerr.
3rd Prize.

There has never been in this nation's history a time when thrift is so necessary as at the present crisis. This is, of course, caused by the greatest war in the history of the world. Our nation is in this war. America must win this war, and in order to do this we must aid our government to meet the numerous expenses that the war brings on. Our soldiers and seamen have to be fed and clothed. Guns and ammunition have to be provided for them. Numerous families are suffering throughout Belgium and France from the lack of food and clothing.

When we consider the slight inconvenience that we have been forced to by this terrible war it seems that if we cannot risk lives fighting for our nation we can at least show our patriotism by securing Liberty Bonds and Thrift Stamps without hesitation.

This not only aids the government in the time of war, but it tends to make the people more economical and thrifty.

Thrift Stamps can be exchanged for a War Savings Certificate which will yield the investor compound interest, and which will mature January 1, 1923.

Thrift Stamps give to those who are unable to secure Liberty Bonds a privilege to loan our government small amounts, thus giving to the investor the spirit of patriotism. It also provides for old age and in case of unexpected sickness in the family.

Another good plan is to put our savings in the bank, where it will yield the investor good interest.

It has been said that the American nation wastes enough to support the whole French nation.

Waste is a crime. It is both injurious to ourselves and society. Many people are kept in poverty throughout life because they have not recognized the importance that saving small sums demands.

Great waste of food is often caused by careless and extravagant housewives. The successful business man always tries to avoid waste.

Waste is often found in government affairs. Salaries are often paid to worthless employees, who have been placed in their positions through favoritism.

Watch out for the waste in your community. Practice and preach the gospel of the clean plate. Our food solution is to serve smaller portions, and no more than necessary must be eaten.

Eat more of foods that are plentiful and less of foods that are scarce.

Remember that the Americans if they are to remain free, possessing liberty, must save and economize.

For if we do not save we may slave later.

Dorris Fowler.

What is Thrift? We hear this word used so often now days that it would be well for each one of us to stop and think what the meaning of this word is. Webster says that the word thrive means to increase. As thrift has the same meaning it would also mean to increase. To increase would be to save; in other words, to invest. If we are thrifty we will help in conservation of food; we will also save our money. Saving does not mean to hoard it up and put it in the bank, but it means to invest it in Liberty Bonds or Thrift Stamps or War Saving Stamps. By investing our money in this manner we will not only be gaining something for ourselves but we will be lending our aid and support to our country and its needs in the present war. All the people of the United States have heard the call of Uncle Sam to save and help the country in every possible way. We are asked to buy Thrift Stamps with the money we often spend for amusements. We do not gain as much with the amusements as Uncle Sam could gain with the money we have spent so foolishly. It is foolish because our country needs millions of dollars now, and we could at least do without some of our pleasures and good times until the war is over. Our soldiers at the front can not win in this war if they do not have the support and encouragement of those who are left at home. We at home must help by standing back of our government and our president.

Carmack Baker.
5th Prize.

By thrift we mean saving everything that we can, but it doesn't mean being stingy. You don't need to deprive yourself of anything that you need in order to be thrifty.

We can save in school by not using too much paper and by not wasting it, and by not injuring any school property.

We can save in our lunches by only putting in what we need; and by not throwing it away, as well as not eating expensive things.

We can save our money by buying Thrift Stamps, or by putting it into the bank. We can also save our money by NOT buying candy and things we do not need.

We can save at home by not using too much wood or coal and by keeping the house and yard in good order. If we keep the house in order we are not so likely to break things.

We must be thrifty if we are to win this war. We know that we are right, so help win the war by "Being Thrifty."

READ WHAT THE GRAMMAR SCHOOL IS DOING

ARE THE SCHOOL TEACHERS PATRIOTIC? IS THE FACULTY FILLED WITH COMMUNITY SPIRIT? IS THE SCHOOL A FACTORY OF DEMOCRACY? INVESTIGATE.

(By the faculty)

The school teachers do have a vision and a conception of what their school and patriotic duties are. You could not afford to have teachers who are not responsible to their duties to the society—whether city or national—and to their work. They have been most faithful and loyal in their work during the past year, and have at all times shown a fine spirit of co-operation in carrying out the school policy of sound, modern, and patriotic education. This is due to the fact that the Board has wisely chosen teachers because of merit, avoiding the cheap politics of simply finding places for their friends—and because of the harmony among the trustees and teachers.

THE SCHOOLS AND THE WAR

This is the DAY of Patriotic Service. The President asked the teachers of the land to work for a "deeper understanding and aims of democracy" and the "problems of national life;" the state officials have similarly called; and their own patriotism has called service. The teachers have been making thrift posters and other patriotic art work almost daily, buying war bonds and thrift stamps to the extent of $5998.27 (this includes the amounts owned by the pupils), sewing, knitting, and soliciting for the Red Cross, making the Grammar School Junior Red Cross a success, carding questionnaires for the Government Board at Fullerton, making a blackboard record of children eating less wheat, etc., complying with the food regulations at home, instilling the first principle of good citizenship and a reverent, enlightened patriotism to respect this land and its flag, making the school a real part of the civic organization, teaching thrift and economy, taking upper grade pupils to the High school to hear war lectures, planting war gardens and encouraging home gardens, giving them patriotic literature and patriotic assemblies, giving physical development exercises, and by impressing parents with the necessity of getting behind all of this. The Red Star has since come into its own.

The school does know that it is to educate its pupils, but of what use is reading and writing to the state if the pupils have not learned the American ideals—love of God, freedom, country, home, and fellowmen; and if their big brothers at the front have sacrificed everything to save these ideals as a heritage but in vain? If the world is to be made safe for democracy, the children must now be socialized up to that plane. Therefore the faculty does teach patriotic service, and that great lesson—Principles of Democracy.

EDUCATION AFTER THE WAR.

E. P. Cubberly of Stanford University thinks that Germany exploited the idea of class ruling mass. The Anglo-Saxon developed fair play and freedom. Germany says that Might makes Right, but the Anglo- Saxon must teach that Right makes Might and the opposite of the German philosophy of "putting it over" regardless of methods. Thousands of Austrian children were shot because they had picked up copies of Pres. Wilson's Proclamation which had been dropped by aeroplanes. Bring to this age a history of civilization and education. Educated people will have to develop a better philosophy.

Democracy has passed thru many crises, but this war is Democracy's greatest crisis. If the Allies can sustain for the next six months, the world can be given a Western peace.

Prussia conquered Germany, and as late as 1230—when Germany accepted Christ—they were still offering human sacrifices; and it looks as tho they are still offering human sacrifices.

If we win against this Prussian conqueror, America, South America, Africa, and Asia will be "safe for Democracy."

After the war, the social and the economic forces will accelerate education, and Labor will get more of the product results; that is, the capitalist will divide more with the laborer. There will be a move to develop world markets in Africa, Asia, and South America. This means productive factories at home.

History will be rewritten; civics and geography will be changed; and morals will be taught. As the trained man will supercede other men, formal grammar, useless arithmetic and geography will give away time so that modern science and art can come ahead.

There will be a large expansion in work after the war. Therefore, the schools must expand to meet the needs of the people for the work. To this end people will be attending night extension classes.

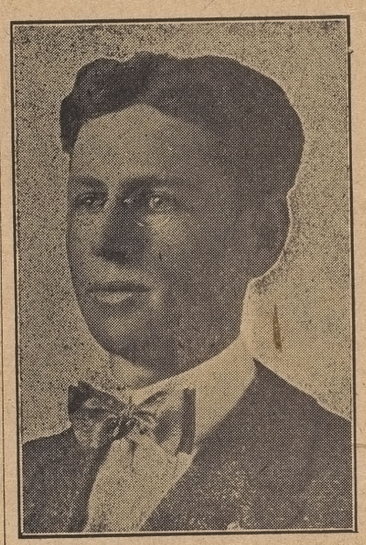
Discipline will be coupled with moral worth or democratic discipline—doing what you ought to do—will fit into the development of the social scale.

It is estimated that at the end of this war we shall be eighty billion dollars in debt. This will be paid by means of thrift, economy, and production. Increase the productiveness of the worker and reduce the cost of production and we shall soon pay our debts. Eliminate waste and practice thrift. The French child works—the girls working in the garden, feeding chickens, keeping books, or carrying the purse without spending the money. The boy gets a job. The American children must learn to work regularly. We waste on dress, with food, dining cars, and articles that cost money. Too many American children know how to loaf and idle away time. The schools must educate for higher efficiency in the household, industrial, agricultural, domestic, and commercial lines. It is hard to be happy and poor, or to be happy and not know how to use what we have.

Emphasis must be placed upon vocational guidance. You can not make telegraph operators out of people that are both slow and deaf. Pupils must have the right condition or work to which they are suited if they are to give valuable service.

There must be a redirection of Americanization. Eliminate the languages that are not American. Have the private and parochial schools teach in the English language, and have them up to the standard maintained by the public schools.

Conservation must be emphasized. Conserve the human material. Give physical tests. The Government does it. Economic pressure makes us to care for the child. The state should exercise more control over the child. There are 1,000,000 illiterates in this country as a monument to the theory that the parent can do with his child as he wishes. The state evidently feels that it has an interest in the child, for the state oftimes has to pay for what the parent did or did not do. The state says, let there be compulsory education. The state must emphasize more care for the wayward.



HAROLD H. CAMPBELL
Supervising Principal

School administrators must emphasize the educational needs to the people, because the school will have to have more money in order to do the new. The cheapest kind of education is a cheap room, a cheap teacher, some ill-fitting furniture, and the pupils. But when you begin to build shops, etc., you will need more money. There will be a higher overcharge, because better leaders will be required. When you come to make out a school budget, SQUEEZE OUT POLITICS.

Schools should be managed as a unit. The old way of teaching by assigning lessons and then testing will pass away. The educational program will be laid out scientifically—test by the science of education. People test grain scientifically before planting, in anticipation of a good harvest.

There must be Business, Educational, Mental, and Administrative Efficiency. Where are you going to get trained leaders in this kind of a paid system? People who are at the top of business get paid such salaries that make it unnecessary for them to be pensioned when their work is over.

KNOW WHERE YOU ARE GOING.

THE GREATEST OF ALL SCHOOLS SHOULD BE IN WASHINGTON

thinks Dr. Silas Evans of Occidental College. He would also have the graduate schools of the world in America, and not in Germany. He thinks that there will be a fight between the culture schools and the practical schools; but, nevertheless, more spirit will permeate and pervade.

Athletics will cease to be an excuse for college, but it will be an essential because it belongs to the scheme of things; it develops the physique; it develops sportsmanship that demands the rules of the game to be played. A true sportsman would rather honestly lose than to win by a German deceit—thus athletics has a place in the moral.

SCHOOLS SHOULD PUBLISH STANDARD TESTS.

W. M. Stephens of the Long Beach schools thinks that it will be necessary for the school to publish standard tests, and to disseminate the scientific results already obtained, and that the school will have to explain the cost of education to the public, and how England voted, about the third year of the war, $19,000,000 more for the educational budget than ever before—even during the stress of war. While he spoke along the lines of Mr. Cubberly, he added that pupils that have the most productive ability will be the most valuable. Servants are greater than parasites. SPIRIT VALUE will be put into labor. There will be a passion for doing good work.

WOULD GIVE THE UNITED STATES AN INTERNATIONAL PLACE.

Another speaker in this educational conference, J. L. Lewinsohn, Attorney-at-Law in Los Angeles, expressed himself to the effect that as the United States is to have an international place in and after this war, he would make history, geography, and economics up to date and broader in scope. He believed that American education was opposed to German education, for instead of making her people loyal subjects of the Kaiser, it made a free and God-loving people.

Relative to the questions, Shall We Increase the Dignity of Teaching? and Shall We Have a More Democratic Corps of Teachers and School Administrators? he suggested that the schools have something similar to the officers' training camp, in order to get school administrators. As it is now, the finest teachers become administrators or else the best platform speakers get preferment. He would have more democracy in the school administration. Politics will cause a good man to be lost on account of some disagreement with a politically constituted body. Schools themselves must be free. The teachers must be free in order to teach freedom.

In conclusion, let us go back to Dr. Evans, who said that God and Nature always work on THE PRINCIPLE OF CONTINUITY. There is no first nor last in education—Grammar school first and college last. There must be co-operation in ALL education. Idealism and not savagery will succeed. Old things will pass away and all things will be new.

WHY DO TEACHERS ATTEND SUMMER AND NIGHT SCHOOL?

In answer to the call of the teacher for some means of keeping abreast of the times, night school and summer school courses are being offered in almost every up-to-date community.

The modern teacher feels the need of building FOR the future, as well as of teaching OF the past, for every thoughtful educator knows that to the children of today will come the problems of the greatest reconstruction period the world has ever known, and that the foundations upon which they must build are now being laid by the public school.

Teachers study for one of two reasons: to make themselves more efficient in their chosen profession, or to keep abreast of the times. Under the former head we place technical studies, such as manual training, domestic arts or typing; while under the second we list cultural subjects, as education, psychology, or literature.

Aside from the knowledge gained, the mere fact that you are once more a pupil may put you in a more sympathetic attitude toward your class, and make you feel more keenly their needs and desires.

But above all, a teacher must GROW to meet the changing conditions or be left behind.

HOME WORK.

This school has given credit for work done at home regularly. This particular work, which has been carried on for nearly two years, has been a pathmaker for the war activities of today.

Household Arts—Cooking Class

WHY PHYSICAL TRAINING FOR GIRLS?

1st. To develop muscular control thru calisthenics; to achieve (1) Erect position, (2) Greater endurance, (3) Correct breathing, walking.

2nd. To develop rhythmic sense thru folk drills; to result in (1) Gracefulness, (2) Better carriage of the body.

3rd. To develop co-ordination thru athletic games; which (1) Stimulate growth of body and mind, (2) Increase alertness, (3) Bring about a co-operative spirit, (4) Required by law.

Health is one of the greatest assets toward an efficient, useful life. Our aim, therefore, especially in the physical training department, is to find poor habits of position and breathing, and to correct them by proper exercises before they develop into defects.

MISS MILDRED MITCHELL
Coaching, Grade 3, Girls' Athletics

Most children like to play, and get outdoor exercise, but often their interest leads them to only a few games, and many muscles are not developed. The children who do not care for active games and who spend most of their time indoors are the ones who most need exercise.

In our class work the games and drills are varied, so that the pupils may get both enjoyment and permanent benefit to their health. The rules of basketball have been studied carefully and changed by people of experience in girls' athletics, so that any normal girl, in the upper grades, can play with benefit to herself. Volley ball is another competitive game used effectively. These two games especially develop co-ordination. Each girl must both think and act quickly if she is to be of value to her team.

We wish for the co-operation of the community in boosting for flooring for our courts, making an ideal outdoor gymnasium for our school. Are you with us?

WHAT THE WORLD NEEDS.

Household Arts was supposed to teach thrift in the use of time, labor, money and food, and to bring to the American people the necessity of educating for home making. But the great world-wide war seems to be teaching these things with a vengeance, and is especially waking people up to the fact that it is positively necessary for every housewife to know something about the classes of food and their use in the human body. We must know what foods give strength and energy, what foods build and repair, and what ones regulate body processes in order that proper substitutions will be made for wheat, meat, fat, sugar, etc., that will not affect the health of individuals.

MISS GEORGIA STEBBINS
Grade 3, Household Arts
Junior Red Cross Leader
High School Certificate

The Germans have thought God was with them, and that they would reach the coast and take Paris, but they couldn't have gone far without food. I understand that they have their rations figured out to the calorific value. The term diet should not be confined to the sick room—it should be a daily used term.

All meals should contain (1) protein, (2) carbohydratis or starch and sugar, (3) fats and oils, and (4) body regulators. Growing children must have different food from grown-ups.

For years men have known how many quarts of oats to feed their horses in order to have them do a certain amount of work; and how much corn to feed their hogs to make them weigh the maximum amount. Are human beings and their daily activities less important?

Since most people are awakened to the necessity of scientific knowledge of food, Household Arts must and is ready to supply the information needed. As the schools readjust their curriculums to meet the demands of the present time, Household Arts must be given a place. It must be a compulsory department within itself, having a definite end—education for ideal home life—and must not be left to fill in the corners and crevices, as it is in the present-day curriculum. Besides having a definite place in school, it should be a part of the community as well, where mothers can work out home problems and receive instruction, if desired; and give opportunities to exchange ideas worked out through knowledge and experience.

Is this work important for girls? We know that it is preparation for making a happy home, and will do away with the long abuse of the "mother instinct." And it is equally important for boys. They have a definite part to play in making a happy home. A man should know just as much about food as his wife. He must know why the one-year-old baby cannot eat bananas and wieners and candy. Using a needle has never hurt anyone, and if a boy learns to use one he is only preparing himself to handle machinery, etc., better. Our hands are used in this life about as much as our brains, so why not educate them? "Sissyness" is certainly out of style for boys; the more they know about the daily life about them, the better they will be prepared to fulfill the daily walks of life.

If the schools are to make us more intelligent about the life we live and the work we do, they must provide liberally for instruction in the arts and sciences pertaining to the home, for they are the most significant. The home is the beginning and end of life for most people; all activities proceed from it and return to it.

There is no work which gives more satisfaction, or complete joy, than that experienced by the mother who has brought up her family in a happy, well-ordered home, and sent them out into the world trained to deal with its problems and with the spirit of service. In no sense can this work be termed drudgery, unless the one who undertakes it is totally unprepared for it.

BOYS' ATHLETIC DRILLS, ETC.

Realizing that organized play is a benefit to every student and school, the Huntington Beach Grammar school has adopted an unique plan, whereby the afternoon recesses may be used for various athletic drills and games.

Having three men of the faculty, it is not difficult to divide this work into three branches. This physical training is carried on in addition to the regular school games and teams, under the direction of the athletic manager, Mr. Skinner.

The three classes are as follows:

Class I, Marching, Mr. Campbell.
Class II, Games, Mr. Hall.
Class III, Y. M. C. A. Exercises, Mr. Skinner.

Each man has had experience in the line he instructs, and all three combine their efforts when a special review of the entire school is held. This new branch of school life is proving to be a very valuable addition to our already patriotic spirit.

Because less than one-half of our young men were physically unfit to qualify under the recent draft examination, we have had to stop and think, WHY? It surely does not reflect creditably on the health and average physical condition of our people.

FRANKLYN E. SKINNER
Vice Principal, Grade 8
Athletic Manager

As the Government demands strong men and nurses for its overseas service, and to engage in the regular home and business pursuits of everyday life, the school has given its attention more than ever to physical development.

When the race track is made around the boys' athletic field, more clay put upon the courts and diamond, and when the inter-courts (made by the wings of the building) are oiled or paved, then a gigantic campaign for the physical development of Grammar school pupils can be launched. Even now the events included in our program give an opportunity never before offered for extensive and intensive all-around development.

TRACK TEAM.

What is more exciting than the final relay at a close track meet? An inter-class meet was staged at the Central school early this season. It was won by the Eighth grade, the Seventh coming in a close second.

A track has been made for the sprints, jumping places for the high and broad jump, pole vault standards erected, and a shot-put field located.

Capt. Masters, Bennie Page, George Smith, Donald McDonald, Hugh Page, Ashley Davis, Gifford Kutzner, Kenneth Snyder, Donald Gilchrist, Wayne Gilchrist and Russell Hall have made good records, either on the track or in the field events. The first four are members of the relay team, and are the stars of the team.

In time there will be an oval running track graded on the campus. We shall then be able to hold large district meets here.

MRS. MARY J. NEWLAND
President of the Board

BASEBALL.

Baseball is regarded by all true Americans as the National Game. No real American boy or man goes through life without a knowledge of this game. Many choose it as a life profession. We have in our school several boys who may become big league players. Capt. Bennie Page, John Masters, Donald McDonald and Donald Hawes have shown special ability during the last two seasons. The following boys are close on the heels of these boys for honors: Kenneth Snyder, Hugh Page, Raymond Wilson, George Bundschuh, Gifford Kutzner, Donald Gilchrist, George Smith and Henry Bickmore.

MISS LOLA B. CLARK
Grade 6
High School Certificate

Central school defeated Ocean View and Westminster this season, and expects to play Orange, Garden Grove, Seal Beach, Long Beach and others before school closes.

The diamond on the school ground is very good for daily practice. The pupils, faculty, and citizens should be very proud of our Central Grammar ball team.

BASKETBALL.

School athletic life always starts with the basketball season each fall. Central school turned out a very good team this season. Ocean View was conquered twice by our five, avenging the defeat of last year. Two close games were lost to the Freshmen at High school. The team lacked competition and was forced to play a short season.

Ralph Kinsey, now at Brea school, was our star center. Bennie Page and Donald McDonald played as forwards, with John Masters and George Smith as guards. Kenneth Snyder and Gifford Kutzner were subs.

The school has three good clay courts this year, where both girls' and boys' teams practice and play. Volley ball is a game somewhat similar and is played upon two clay courts built for that game.

WHY WE ARE WILLING TO GIVE UP THE MUCH-LOVED NAME "KINDERGARTEN" FOR "SUB-PRIMARY."

The word "Kindergarten" is a much hallowed word to people and teachers directly concerned. But in order to be recognized and be of greater benefit, we are willing to give up this beloved name.

It is felt that people do not realize the benefits of a Kindergarten training—that it is only a place to amuse children. We want people to see and feel the educational value of training a child of five years as well as training a child of six years. We want closer co-operation between the first grade and the kindergarten. A great many things the kindergarten starts could be carried on into the first grade with benefit to the child. On the other hand, some of the primary work could be put into the kindergarten. The foundation for the teaching of reading and the study of English is very materially laid in the kindergarten.

MISS THELMA PRICE
Kindergarten (Sub-Primary) Director
Athletics

Why You Should Send Your Child to Kindergarten.

1. To broaden his experience by beginning early in life so that later he will be more capable of experiencing greater things.

2. To make him stronger physically. "To learn to think we must use our limbs."

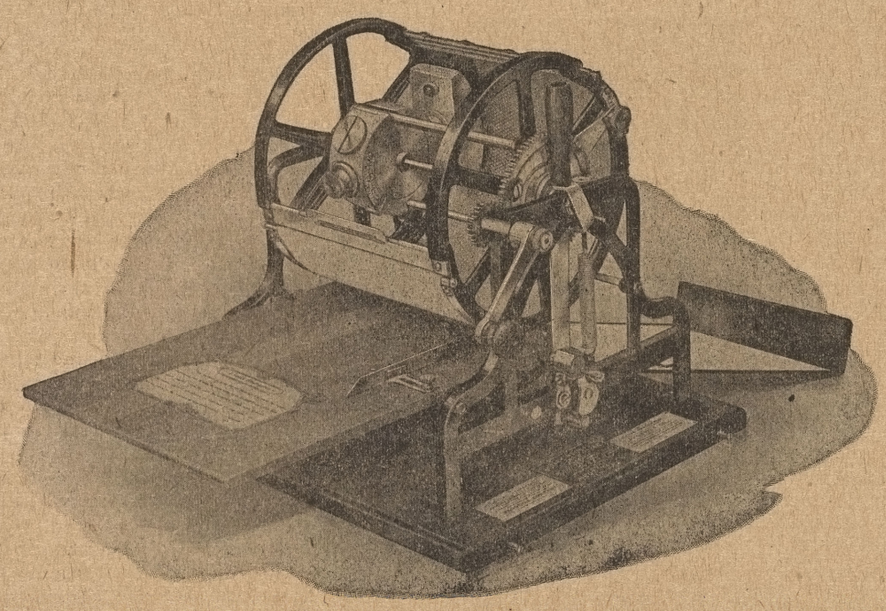
Kindergarten affords excellent opportunities for right co-ordination of muscles and bodily control, thru the rhythms in marching, running, skipping and such like.

3. Makes children more independent. They wait on themselves and do and think independently.

4. Awakens and stimulates thought. Each child works out his own problems, thus developing his initiative and originality. For an illustration, take the problem of making a doll house: The child chooses his own material. His boards must be the same length. He must have windows and doors. The walls must be straight and even, or the wind will blow his house over. And as this problem was worked out in our own kindergarten this year, the furniture was added, even to the telephone and clock, and the bed clothing put on the doll bed. The value of such work is realized more when you really see these little, active minds working and experimenting over these problems. The joy and happiness they have in doing it proves its value.

MISS IMOGENE PICKRELL
Kindergarten Assistant

5. Will make him a better citizen. The social relationship that is gained thru the plays and games is one of the greatest values of a kindergarten training. Here he receives his first knowledge of the rights of others. It is his first step toward co-operation with other minds of equal wisdom to build and uphold a unit. He is in the making for a better citizen for a better community.



The Rotary Neostyle Duplicating Machine

One of the best investments the school has ever made. Since buying this machine of Cunningham, Curtis and Welch Co., 252-54 South Spring St., Los Angeles, the school has printed nearly 20,000 copies of examination questions, songs, circulars, drawings, cooking lessons, other lessons, music, outlines, etc. By avoiding time spent in copying things from the board, class discipline has been better and the pupil always has the copy or he can soon be supplied. Thus the school has efficiency as well as business. Either the stencil is made with the typewriter or by hand. Beside all of this class work, a weekly newspaper has been published by means of the machine. This paper has contributed largely in making better school understanding, co-operation, and spirit, for each pupil gets a copy that he takes home. All write-ups are the same, so there are no misunderstandings. HOW CAN A SCHOOL DO WITHOUT THIS PRINTING MACHINE?

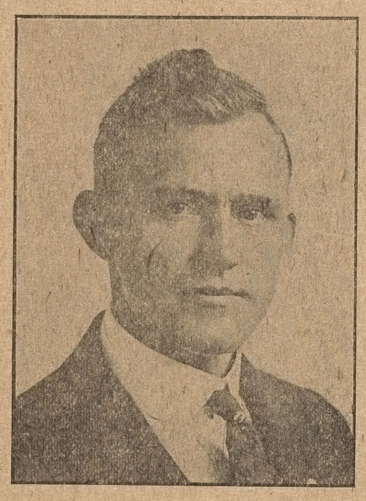
Grammar School War Gardens—Just Beginning

Grammar School War Gardens

The war gardens of Central Grammar school rank among the best in Orange county. The gardens have been well planned, and permanent stakes have been placed at the corner of each garden. The watering system has also been carefully placed. For these improvements we are exceedingly grateful to the board of trustees.



BOYDEN HALL
Grades 7, 8
War Garden Supervisor; Games

A spirit of patriotism is now on the ascendency throughout the entire nation. The pupils in our school garden work have caught this spirit, as shown by their interest in the gardens. Our government is back of the work. It is a vital necessity as a food saver; as a step towards economy; healthful recreation, and a blessing to the table of the consumer.

We should not, however, stop at school gardens alone. Every patriotic citizen, young and old, should at this time use all available ground. Make it produce, then save and be thrifty. If we are to be thrifty, then produce more. If we are to win the war, make a war garden.

Huntington Beach Central school has planned well. Her gardens are permanent. At the end of the term the caretaker of the grounds will see that all gardens are kept in shape, so that they can be made productive throughout the entire year.

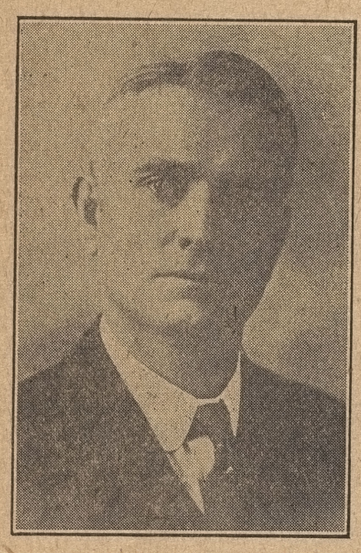
These are war gardens. Respect them as such. Do not mutilate, and they will yield an hundred fold and be a credit to Huntington Beach.

FROM CHILD TO CHILD.

Everyone has a part to play in the world's great war; not one can shirk; all must follow directions and "do their bit," for "Loyalty in little things means victory in many." Even the children have their part, for the suffering children of France and Belgium have sent an appeal for help to the children of America. And the 22,000,000 school children of America have readily responded by organizing the Junior Red Cross, a branch of the great organization which gives aid to suffering people during peace or war. Think of what so many children can do and how glad they are to give up some of their time and pennies to so great a cause—that of making some garment that will save the life and bring comfort and joy to some orphan or suffering child far across the water. What mother does not want her child to be the "Good Samaritan," and what mother has not enough mother instinct to reach to the children of other lands?

MISS GLADYS GRABILL
Grade 2

Central Grammar school was one among many schools that has responded to the call, and the children are proud to be enrolled as Junior Red Cross members. They are ready and willing to do their bit. Almost every child has brought salvage to help earn money, and almost all have sewed or helped to sew some garment.



W. L. McKENNEY, Trustee

Now there are 400 garments completed and there are many others in the making, and there are many to send that are kept as they are given. The children are so interested in their mission that the work cannot be supplied fast enough.

However, not much would have been accomplished if the mothers and interested workers had not helped to get the work ready on Wednesday afternoons. Central Grafmar school expresses its sincere thanks to everyone who has helped to carry on this work and bring their number of garments up to the maximum amount. We want to do what other schools are doing.

Remember that the J.R.C. wants everything you have that you don't want, what you are through with, and what you aren't through with but can easily spare. Salvage —Time—Money.

THERE NEVER HAS BEEN A TIME

when Art and Music did not play an important part in the lives of its people. But today the world war is showing us in no small way a greater value to be derived from these two subjects. The new spirit it has developed is not individualistic. "Get together" and "help the other fellow" are slogans of today.

Music supervisors throughout the land are striving to do their bit thru the realm of song to meet their country's needs. One form of such effort has been manifested in the organization, all over the country, of community choruses or "sings." Recently our neighbor city, Long Beach, fell in line, and is being assisted by the municipal band. Why can't we here do it, too?

This "get together" spirit has become more popular even in the public schools. This, which we term "school spirit," has recently effervesced in our own school along the lines of a "School Song Contest," with the result that we now have ready for any occasion some excellent school songs. To encourage competition, prizes were offered, the victors being presented with school pennants.

Miss Lucile Davenport
Music and Drawing Supervisor—Folk Drill
High School Certificate

The Grammar school orchestra is but an exponent of the popular slogan before mentioned, and has played an important part in our school activities. Our Parent-Teacher Association solicited their assistance several times this year, and at various school affairs and entertainments they have also appeared. The instrumental ensemble at present is: two at the piano, five violins, one horn, snare and bass drum, traps, including bells. For the last three mentioned, we are indebted to our school board.

ART IS SERVIING THE NATION

in many ways these days. The government has encouraged it thru national poster contests on food conservation and the like. But until recently these contests were only open to talent outside the public schools. Believing now that the art work of its public schools can be of valuable assistance in war times, the government is offering prizes to school children of all grades thruout the United States for the best posters designed to advertise the National War Savings Stamp poster campaign. Such work is giving our pupils now, as never before, the feeling that they are drawing not only for the artistic but for some practical good.

The upper grades are learning the principles of good lettering thru the designing of thrift posters, which, when finished, will be posted in the various class rooms to serve as daily reminders to our boys and girls.

Thru this patriotic poster work the pupils grasp more clearly the meaning of true patriotism. This wave of patriotism spreads even to the lowest grades, where the little folks cut and paste paper to produce the flags of Belgium and the Allies, miniature army camps, etc. Yes, and it is spreading, and is bound to spread everywhere, because it voices that "get together" spirit which implies a fellowship of ideals and effort that cannot but make for progress. The work done by our own boys and girls during the past year in music and drawing is evidence of the fact.

SCHOOL HISTORY.

The following statement is a short account of the beginning and progress of the Huntington Beach School District:

The first school was held in a store building and started in 1902. The people of the community raised the money for the rent by subscription, as the county would not allow it.

The school was conducted for a period of two years with one teacher, at the end of which time, about 1904, an effort was made to obtain better school facilities by voting a bond issue of five thousand dollars, which failed to carry. A second attempt to vote bonds to the amount of seven thousand dollars also failed to carry. A third time an effort was made for a better school building by voting a bond issue for nine thousand dollars, which carried, and a school house was erected at once.

The first trustees were D. E. Ford, Edgar Edwards and Noah Carey.

In 1912 four extra rooms were added to the old school house.

In 1914 was built a bungalow on the old school grounds large enough for two class rooms.

In 1915 was built a small Domestic Science room in connection with old school house but separate from main building.

These several additions to the main building, being built shortly after each other and rapidly filled by school children, showed the great need of the school district for larger and more commodious school quarters. Whereupon, early in the year 1915, an election was called for the purpose of voting school bonds for the purchase of two suitable school sites and the erection of one ten-room school building with an auditorium, also domestic science and manual training departments. Accordingly a bond issue of $70,000 was called for and an election held, which resulted in the bonds carrying by a large majority.

The board of trustees of the school district at this time consisted of Mary J. Newland, W. L. McKenney and C. E. Lavering.

The school site whereupon this building stands consists of about ten acres of ground on a rising eminence overlooking the ocean front, and a building was erected containing twelve class rooms, seating some forty pupils each, together with an auditorium to seat upwards of 700. The new building was occupied about Jan. 1, 1916. Since then many things have been added to the building and grounds in order to put a finish to the whole. The most notable piece of work is the grading of the yard, installing an underground sprinkling system, and the sewing of grass seed. Courts for games have been clayed; grounds prepared and equipped for war gardens that are to be used the year through; the manual training room was better equipped; the household arts rooms were furnished with cupboards, chairs and a dining room table, and a range; and the music and drawing room better equipped.

Mrs. Newland, Mr. McKenney and Mr. Vavra are again the board of trustees. The faculty is almost the same this year as last. Harmony and co-operation exist to its fullness among those in charge of the school. Therefore progress and the enrichment of the pupils are in evidence on all sides.

EXHIBITS.

In nearly every room there are one or more educational, industrial exhibits. In addition to this, the University of California has been sending Visual Industrial Exhibits.

FINANCE.

Since last year's school edition, changes have been made which has meant the saving of considerable money for improvements without curtailing the efficiency of the school system.

NEWS OF TALBERT & VICINITY

Fishing Party.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Walker and family, Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Benefield of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Smith of Bishop, and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Morton and family of Long Beach composed a fishing party that motored to the beach near Capistrano, Sunday, and spent the night in camp. The party were looking for grunion, but only succeeded in capturing one during the night. However, the trip was enjoyed immensely by all. Mr. and Mrs. Smith formerly resided here and he and J. A. Dunn farmed the Frank Borchard ranch. Mr. and Mrs. Smith have purchased a Buick "Six," and after visiting with friends will motor to Canada for their vacation.

Cutting Barley.

S. E. Talbert started cutting barley on the Paulerino ranch, Monday, where he has 810 acres that are ripening rapidly. Mr. Talbert estimates his yield at close to a ton per acre. The crop on ground where beans were grown last season is heavy, and will probably yield two to three tons per acre, and some other sections are very light. He has been growing barley on this ranch for the past six years, and says his crop this year is about an average one. Seven mowing machines have been clipping the ripening hay.

Progressive Dinner.

One of the pleasant social events of the past week was the progressive dinner given by Miss Edith Plavan, Saturday evening, at her home on the boulevard east of town, covers being laid for Miss Dorothy and Miss Mary Hendrie, Willie Tiball, Don Winians of Santa Ana, Miss Helen Stockdale, Miss Grace Maganaty, Fred Dean, James Dean of Long Beach, Pearl Newell of Irvine, Ernest Plavan of Perris, Hilton Browning.

Bean Growers Organize.

The bean growers of the Greenville district have organized the Greenville Bean Growers' Association for the purpose of receiving, cleaning and marketing beans. The principal place of business is given as Greenville and the articles of incorporation are for 50 years, and the directors for the present are: R. L. Tedford, Antone Borchard, F. D. Plavan, Wm. W. Armstrong and W. R. McClintock.

That Pig Was Donated.

The pig that netted the Red Cross entertainment $18 was donated by Robert Wardlow, and those who had charge of the affair are very grateful to him for it, as the pig episode accounted for almost one-half of the net profits. Some of the school assisted in making the ice cream and other work.

Ten-Pound Boy.

A recent letter written by Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Ater of Blythe to Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Talbert stated that a ten-pound boy had recently arrived in their home. Mr. and Mrs. Ater formerly resided here on the boulevard, west of the ranch of Mrs. Nimmocks.

School Will Close Soon.

The school term will close Friday, May 31, and Mrs. Maud Curl, principal, states there will be no regular county examinations this year, as most of the time is being spent at Red Cross work. There is some talk of a picnic by the school.

Sunday Dinner Guests.

THE FRINGE OF SOCIETY" HERE SATURDAY EVENING

Last Episode of "The Fighting Trail" Sunday Night.

PAULINE FREDERICK THE ATTRACTION THURSDAY NIGHT.

Saturday Night.

A New York City newspaper editor, who is an habitual drinker, has allied himself with progressive men and women to save drink-inclined people from themselves. This editor, Milton Sells, known in the picture as Martin Drake, is believed by his friends to be a total abstainer. His wife, Esther Drake, played by Ruth Roland, has discovered that when she drinks alcoholic liquor, her moral fiber undergoes a change.

Drake thinks that his wife has never tasted liquor, just as she thinks he has not. This story is known as "The Fringe of Society," and the scenes are laid in New York City.

Ned Medford (played by J. Herbert Frank), supposedly the loyal friend of the Drakes, and a member of their smart society set, is more than the man of leisure he appears. Influential in high political circles, Medford really is head of the liquor interests. Finding that Drake is allied with the opposition, and being secretly in love with Esther Drake, Medford sets out deliberately to accomplish the defeat of the man whose confidence he has gained.

But, in a moment of carelessness, he makes a slip. A secret deal which he and the liquor interests make for acquiring millions of bushels of grain (in defiance of the government's laws) puts him at momentary disadvantage. Tip O'Neill, star reporter of Martin Drake's newspaper, "The Record," gets possession of the written agreement. Then a series of crises occur which leave the outcome in doubt up to the last one hundred feet of the picture.

Sunday Night.

Artie, the Millionaire Kid," is a story that is different. Ernest Truex and Dorothy Kelly are two artists of ability.

Artie, after being expelled from college with the degree of "N. G.," wins a bride and fortune. How he does it cannot be told. His experiences in a young ladies' seminary, his winning of one million and two dimples is one big dash of daring and speed.

Last episode of "The Fighting Trail."

Convinced that at last they have destroyed Lost Mine and slain its miners, a band of desperate outlaws, employed by an agent of the Central Powers, swoops down on the little mining town, loot the bank and stores and start to burn the place before fleeing to safety across the Mexican line. A sheriff's posse attacks them but is driven off and the town is apparently doomed when a troop of U. S. cavalry arrives and after a fierce battle kills or captures every bandit and the agent.

It is one of the most realistic scenes ever filmed, in which 300 men are engaged and the smoke of battle all but obscured the camera. Coming in the fifteenth episode, it is a fitting climax to "The Fighting Trail."

Tragic each but widely different are the fates meted out to the arch villains. Shoestring is mortally wounded in the battle and burning of Lost Mine Camp and dies in the arms of John Gwyn, his hated enemy. Von Bleck, the Teuton agent, when he realizes the game is up, shoots himself in his room as the battle rages. Cut Deep alone is seized alive and, bound on a horse, is led away to prison.

Thursday Night.

Pauline Frederick, one of the screen's great emotional actresses, has temporarily forsaken her customary "heavy" roles and in her latest Famous Players-Paramount picture, "Her Better Self," is seen as a young society butterby in love with a very serious young doctor.

In this picture Miss Frederick has drawn a character-sketch of the very heart and life of this young girl that ranks with such of her masterpieces as "Sapho," "Audrey," "Zaza" and others, although differing widely from any of these.

The story deals with the way Vivian Tyler, pampered daughter of wealthy parents, successfully bridges the vast gulf of poverty which yawns between her and the man she loves, who is a charity doctor.

When their mutual attraction for each other has brought about a situation almost demanding that he propose to her, he is forced to tell her that their marriage would be utterly impossible. "You could not stand even a week of my life," he told her bitterly.

The way she secretly plans to take this test, coming to his sanatorium to help and mingle with his co-workers, but is at last discouraged, not by the endless squalor and drudgery of it, but by discovering what she thinks is a love affair between him and a girl of the streets who worships him, makes a situation that is thoroughly gripping in its intensity and great "human interest."

But the girl who had caused their first misunderstanding soon widens the gulf between them by committing suicide. The blame attaches to the doctor, who chivalrously allows himself to be indicted because he thinks he is shielding Vivian.

The tangle of circumstantial evidence is at last unwound, however, by Vivian herself, and the happiness of the lovers only heightened by their terrible experience.

Pauline Frederick is supported by a splendid cast, including Thomas Meighan, who has been seen with Miss Frederick in most of her recent productions; Frank de Rheim, Armand Cortez, Alice Hollister and Maude Turner Gordon.

Coming Events.

Coming in two weeks, one of the greatest pictures of recent release (less than six weeks). No gruesome scenes, but shows the misery and suffering of poor Belgium through the spy system before and during the invasion of that country by the German army.

For any person who contemplates owning his own home or building for investment, the most beautiful site anywhere near the coast is what is known as our Tract 12, in the vicinity of the High school at 17th and Main street.

All large lots, streets paved and graded and all utilities available. Do you realize that hundreds of people have attempted to locate in Huntington Beach in the last year but were unable to secure modern houses in which to live, and in consequence have gone elsewhere? More are coming.

Build for investment, and choose the most desirable site at the lowest price.

Let us show you.
